Welcome to Creswell Hall at the University of Georgia.

Creswell is one of three high-rise, first-year residence halls at UGA.

Creswell is co-ed by floor, houses the university learning communities and offer students a very diverse first year experience.

Security is very important to us. Creswell provides a 24-hour front desk to offer services to students around the clock, but also to monitor student entry into the building.

Creswell's 965 residents are divided into four wings on eight floors. All wings in floors are single-gender with approximately 30 students living on each wing. One upper-class Resident Assistant lives on each wing to help student make a smooth transition to college.

3:01: [View of a resident room]

All rooms in Creswell have loftable beds, wired Internet access, and are smoke free. Each room has two closets with additional storage above each closet. One of the best features of the rooms in Creswell is that students are able to control the temperature from within the room. Students know the lot of positive qualities of living in Creswell, including their ability to make a lot of close friends on their floor and wing.

3:37: [View of a community bathroom]

Each floor in Creswell has two large centrally located community bathrooms. Bathrooms in Creswell are single gendered. They are maintained by the building custodial team and are cleaned every day.
